

INTERIOR DESIGN

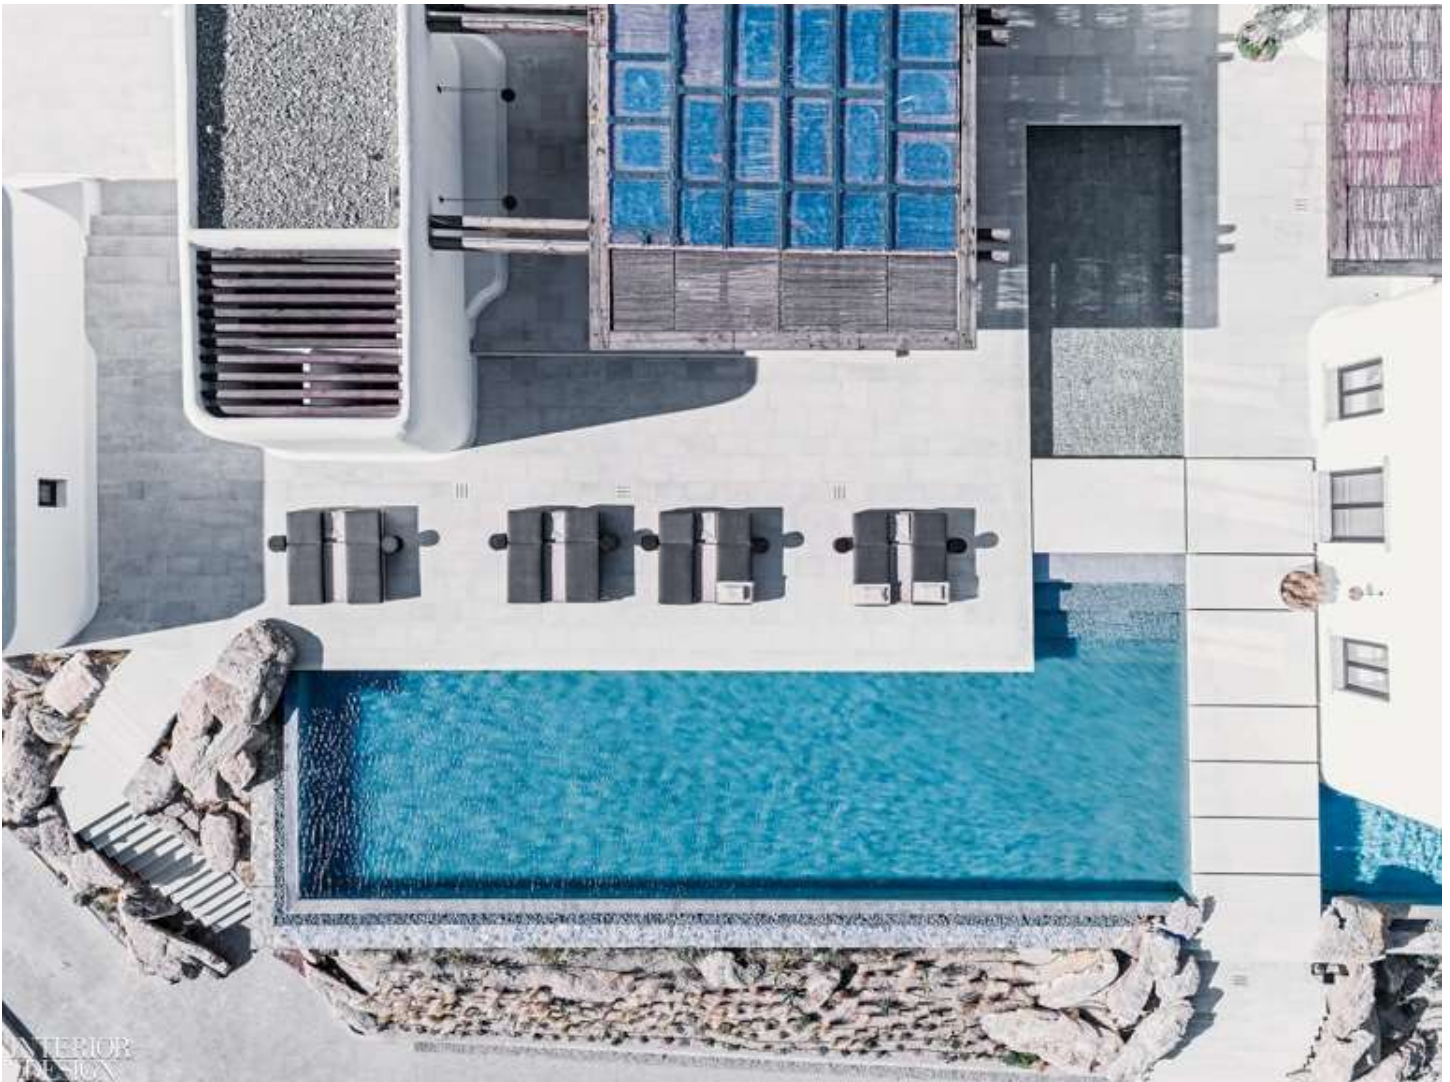

5 Hotels Honor Local History, Traditional Crafts, and Vernacular Forms

July 6, 2021
By Colleen Curry

VIEW SLIDESHOW

At home and abroad, hotels honor local history, traditional crafts, and vernacular forms.

Kálesma Mykonos, Greece by K-Studio and Studio Bonarchi. Photography courtesy of Kálesma Mykonos.

Firms: K-Studio and Studio Bonarchi

Project: Kálesma Mykonos, Greece

Standout: Built in the tradition of the island's Cycladic villages—simple volcanic stone forms, whitewashed with lime—the hillside hotel sports local interior details like ceiling beams of burnt wood, normally used to make fishing boats, and is oriented to give its 25 suites and two villas stunning sunrise and sunset views over the Aegean Sea.